A Message from the President and CEO

Even though the summer months are a time for students to relax and enjoy their vacation, they also provide an important opportunity to ensure our children build upon the academic achievements they have worked so hard for during the school year.

As someone who has spent much of his career in education, I can attest to the problem of the “summer slide,” the learning loss that happens when children at every grade level do not actively pursue educational activities during the summer.

When I was New York City Schools Chancellor, the Department of Education created several initiatives in conjunction with the Department of Youth and Community Development to address the summer slide.

The summer slide is generally estimated at a full month of educational loss, but for lower-income children, it can be even greater, with one study suggesting that they lose more than two months in reading achievement compared to their middle-class peers. Also, educational opportunities for lower-income students are greatly reduced once the school year ends.

That’s why the Summer Reading Program at Queens Library is so essential. It provides entertaining activities for kids of all ages, motivates them to read as many books as they can during the summer months, and (like all our programs) is free of charge and close to home. We’re proud to do our part—with our partners at Astoria Bank, the New York Mets, the New York State Library, and the New York State Education Department—to meet the challenge of providing continual education for the children of Queens.

Families often struggle to find productive activities during the summer, but from Google CS First and Summer Reading to our many events designed for adult and senior customers, we provide something enriching for everyone, six days a week.

I hope you have an enjoyable July and August, and that you will spend a large part of the summer with us at the Library!

What's Happening Now at Queens Library?

Need a Necktie? Come to the “Tiebrary”

You can add “a necktie for your next interview” to the long list of things you can borrow from Queens Library! Use your library card to check out a tie (for up to three weeks) to wear to job interviews and other important events. Each necktie comes in a box with illustrated instructions on how to tie a half-Windsor knot and a list of job interview tips. You can borrow a tie from the “Tiebraries” at our Arverne, Central, Laurelton, and South Jamaica library locations. If you get a job while wearing one of our ties—or would like to donate ties to the Tiebrary program—call us at 718-990-8625.

“A Proper Man, as One Shall See in a Summer’s Day:” Shakespeare in Queens Continues

Our Shakespeare in Queens series of staged performances presented by TITAN Theatre Company continues with A Midsummer Night’s Dream on Monday, August 1, at 5:30 p.m. at Queens Library at Ridgewood, 20-12 Madison Street. (Weather permitting, we’ll hold that performance outdoors!) Lenny Banovez, Artistic Director of TITAN Theatre Company, will join us for “Talking Shakespeare,” a behind-the-scenes discussion of Troilus & Cressida, Pericles, Prince of Tyre, and A Midsummer Night’s Dream, on Monday, August 8 at 6:00 p.m. at Queens Library at Flushing, 41-17 Main Street. We’re also working on the schedule for Year Two of our Shakespeare in Queens series! For more details, visit queenslibrary.org/shakespeare.

Tech Classes and Help for Mature Job Seekers

In July and August, our Job & Business Academy at Flushing Community Library will be booming with technology classes. Students can learn computer basics, beginning and advanced Microsoft Office, how to get the most out of social media and Google, and even how to set up an e-commerce business! This summer, you’ll find a class to help you master most job-related technology. And on July 20 and August 24 at Flushing, adults who feel stuck in their job search can come to our “Job Search for the Mature Adult” workshop, where they will learn skills to boost their chances of getting more interviews and the jobs they want. To learn more and register, call 718-661-1200 or visit jobmap.queenslibrary.org.

Our Adult Learners are Literary Winners!

Congratulations to our Adult Learning Center students Anchulee Chen, Saima Haque, Shawnia Harry, and Lixia Zhang, whose stories were selected for the latest issue of New York University’s Literacy Review, an annual journal of writing from adult literacy programs throughout New York City. ALC students Xiong Xuan and Ginny Zhang also had their creative works chosen to be part of Symphony Space’s All Write! Adult Literacy Program. Thanks to the instructors at our Central, Elmhurst, and Peninsula ALCs for encouraging and nurturing all six of these wonderful writers! ■

Don't Miss Our Great Summer Programs!

Summer is truly underway—and we want to remind you about all the great free activities at Queens Library!

Summer Reading 2016

Visit your community library and pick up book lists and reading logs for adults and children of all ages. You can also visit summerreading.queenslibrary.org to create an online account, see the book selections located there, and track your reading. There are special Summer Reading events at all our library locations; visit the Programs section at queenslibrary.org or check the Events listings in this issue of Queens Library Magazine.

Summer Meals

Free lunches for children and teens are available at nearly 20 Queens Library locations all summer long, five days a week, from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m. The program runs until September 2, and pre-enrollment is not required. For more information, including a list of participating community libraries, phone 311 or visit our Summer Programs webpage. Summer Meals is a program of the NYC Department of Education.

Battle of the Bands

This year, the competition is fiercer than ever, and the best bands in Queens and New York City will rock out at Queens College's Kupferberg Center for the Arts on Thursday, July 14. Free tickets are available at queenslib.org/battleofthebands16, where you can also hear songs from our finalists and tell us who you think will win. Whether it's jazz, pop, hip hop, or rock, get ready to watch the best bands in Queens show what they've got!

Summer Poetry Contest

Keep sending us your haikus, limericks, sonnets, and more for a chance to be published in Queens Library Magazine! The theme of our Summer Poetry Contest is "Get in The Game," and the deadline for submitting your poem of 250 words or less is July 31. To learn more and submit your poems, visit queenslib.org/poetrycontest2016. ■

Queens Library Welcomes New Americans

This summer, we celebrate 240 years of American independence, but what does being American mean in Queens today? It's not just about fireworks and hot dogs—it's about empowering our diverse population by creating accessible opportunities for learning and integration. New Americans, in turn, can share their cultures, traditions, and celebrations with the rest of the borough.

At Queens Library, we offer several programs and services to make the transition to American as smooth as possible. The New Americans Program and NYCitizenship provide recent immigrants with the coping skills to deal with life in New York City, English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) classes, and pathways to citizenship.

ESOL classes are available at three different levels: beginner, intermediate, and advanced, where students learn to speak, understand, read, and write English. Students will apply this knowledge to real-life situations. All classes are taught by professional teachers, who cover vocabulary and grammar and get students comfortable with spoken English. Students will also be taken on a tour of the library, apply for library cards, and receive a comprehensive rundown of the services offered. Along with ESOL, Queens Library also offers Job Training for New Americans with Queens Library's Job & Business Academy, and entrepreneurship workshops for New Americans looking to start their own small businesses.*

For aspiring citizens, Queens Library works with NYCitizenship to provide free, trusted, qualified legal assistance. Interested applicants can attend an information session at a participating library, or simply call ahead to make a free appointment with a lawyer. Participants can apply for citizenship easily, and in some cases at no cost. Free, confidential financial counseling is also available.

Queens Library also offers access to computers for people hoping to apply for the Diversity Visa Lottery (DV-2017). The Diversity Visa Lottery, also known as the Green Card Lottery, is an annual program designed to grant up to 55,000 permanent residency visas to people from countries with low immigration rates to the U.S. If found eligible, applicants are then placed in the running to receive a visa. The granting of visas is done at random, with results generated by a computer. There is no application fee for the U.S. Diversity Visa Lottery.

Additional citizenship services include referral services for citizenship preparation and the Directory of Immigrant-Serving Agencies. A number of programs are also provided in other languages, including but not limited to Spanish and Chinese. Other popular programs include Financial Literacy workshops, which are presented in partnership with local non-profit organizations. Financial literacy information is also available via written collections, DVDs, and CDs in a range of languages, including Arabic, Bengali, Chinese, Korean, and Spanish.

In addition to the New Americans Program and NYCitizenship, Queens Library also presents a full calendar of cultural programs, including dance, music, and even cooking classes. For more details, please refer to the listings at the end of the magazine.

* To find out more about ESOL, visit queenslibrary.org/services/learn-english.

 To make an appointment with NYCitizenship, call 311 and say "Citizenship," or call 212-514-4277.

Sharing Our Success!

We're pleased to share two of Queens Library's recent award-winning successes with you!

Queens Library, along with our partners at the Brooklyn Public Library and the New York Public Library, received a second place LibraryAware Community Award in recognition for our role in implementing IDNYC, New York City's new municipal identification card. Working with the Mayor's Office for Immigrant Affairs, Queens Library acted as a main location where undocumented immigrants, teens, and other New Yorkers could easily register for this new widely accepted alternative identification card. As of January 2016, more than 250,000 people have enrolled in IDNYC by visiting New York City's three public library systems.

We're also proud to announce our two grand prize winners in the NYC Neighborhood Library Awards, the Arverne and Glen Oaks community libraries, and our outstanding finalist, Far Rockaway!

The NYC Neighborhood Library Awards recognize and reward public libraries for being the unsung heroes of New York—places where all are welcome, the programs and resources are free, and communities are supported and enriched every day.

Thanks to the nominations and stories shared by people in their neighborhoods, Arverne and Glen Oaks each received a grand prize of $20,000, and Far Rockaway received a finalist award of $10,000!

Here are some examples of the stories community members shared about these wonderful libraries:

- John, a neighborhood resident, husband, and parent, said that “Arverne Library goes out of their way to make us feel comfortable, and the kids love going there after school. It means a lot to us that we can send our kids somewhere we feel they are safe and the staff knows them. We are disabled, so it means a lot to us. It is like an extended family.”
- An immigrant and neighborhood resident stated that “Queens Library at Glen Oaks gave me my first taste of books. I moved to this country when I was nine, and I learned English by checking out book after book from this library. I have been going to this library for nearly two decades and the staff members and the services have been impeccable.”
- Betty, a neighborhood resident, said that after Hurricane Sandy, the Far Rockaway library “became a beam of light for the public. We held meetings there, we looked for jobs there, we consoled each other there, we used the internet and so many more things that others took for granted.”

Thank you again to our customers for making these honors possible! ■

A World of Enriching Services for You at Queens Library

All of us at Queens Library look at the summer months as a time to plan programs for the upcoming year. With that in mind, we wanted to give you an overview of three of our most popular services, ones that enriched the lives of thousands of our customers this past year.

Job & Business Academy (JBA)

The mission of Queens Library's Job & Business Academy is to provide free essential training to our customers, through workshops and individual assistance, so that they can improve their economic and professional lives. Many of these classes are also available for English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) students.

We offer:

- Job search training, which builds the basic skills our customers need to conduct a job search, including how to look for jobs online, writing cover letters and resumes, and interview skills
- Basic and intermediate technology training to give customers comfort and ease with using online and computer programs like email, Microsoft Word, Microsoft Excel, Google, and Twitter

- Entrepreneurship and small business training, so aspiring entrepreneurs and current small business owners can learn the skills they need to run and grow their businesses. ■

Children and Youth Programs

Queens Library provides several free programs and services designed to help children from birth to age 18 develop the skills and structures they need to succeed.

- Our Toddler Learning Centers for children 18 to 39 months old are free five-week programs that include age-appropriate play and take-home information for parents and caregivers about nutrition, literacy, and language development.
- Our Kick-Off to Kindergarten program for 3-year-olds prepares toddlers for Kindergarten through intensive story time and socialization, letter and number recognition, crafts, and more. And, in partnership with the NYC Department of Education, Queens Library offers its own fully certified Universal Pre-K at our Woodhaven and Ravenswood locations.
- Our Family Place spaces are early childhood areas filled with developmentally appropriate toys, books, and activities that can be accessed any time the library is open; these are available at our Corona, Central, Seaside, and Richmond Hill locations.

- The Children's Library and Discovery Center, located at Central Library, has hands-on interactive exhibits and learning labs, and our very own Discovery Team, to inspire children's interest in reading, STEM activities, and learning.
- STACKS is our curriculum-based afterschool program for children ages 6-14, designed to enhance their learning experiences through structured and unstructured age-appropriate activities, available at 18 community libraries.

- Our Teen Spaces at the Cambria Heights, Central, Flushing, Glen Oaks, and Sunnyside libraries—and our Queens Library for Teens in Far Rockaway—offer age-friendly activities, dedicated programming, and college and career preparation. ■

Adult Learning and ESOL

Queens Library's Adult Learner Program is one of the largest library-run literacy programs in the United States, serving more than 3,000 students in our ESOL classes and 1,500 students who are on the road to earning their high school equivalency (HSE) diplomas. Since April 2014, the Program has produced more than 300 HSE graduates.

Adult learners can take free courses at any of our seven library-based Adult Learning Centers (ALCs), where staff and volunteers lead small groups and classes focused on reading and writing, English conversation, and HSE test preparation.

We offer free beginner, intermediate, and advanced ESOL classes at more than 25 community library locations; these classes include vocabulary and grammar lessons related to everyday situations and emphasize college and career readiness skills.

Queens Library also runs four Testing Assessment for Secondary Completion centers where students can take the test that leads to an HSE diploma, and offers the National External Diploma Program, which allows independent study and focuses on the evaluation of a portfolio of skills to earn an HSE. ■

For more information about these and many more of our programs and services, please visit your community library or our website at queenslibrary.org.

Access More Than 7,000,000 Digital Media Items

You know you can borrow books and movies at any Queens Library location. Did you know you can also access them for free online?

Queens Library's digital services are about more than eBooks. You can access magazines, movies, music, and audiobooks as well. You can download or stream thousands of different media files to your own personal computer or smartphone, without having to set foot in a library. This remote access is available to any library card holder with an internet connection. Magazine readers can download premium publications like Vanity Fair, Forbes, Vogue, The New Yorker, National Geographic Interactive, NYLON, WIRED, and plenty more. Movie lovers can watch any genre, from comedy to action to foreign films, anytime, anywhere. If it's music you're into, you can access over 7 million songs and 12,000 music videos. You can also choose your next read from one of 80,000 eBooks, or even learn a new language from one of 7,000 audiobooks.

So, whether you're looking for a new movie to watch on a Friday night or keeping up to speed on the latest trends, check out the free selection and a detailed how-to at queenslibrary.org/entertainment/digital-media-downloads. Simply log in with your Queens Library card number and PIN, and get started! ■

Librarian Profile: Ms. Susan's Silly Stunts Inspire Summer Readers!

When it comes to summer reading, children's librarian Susan Scatena goes above and beyond to motivate the kids at Whitestone Community Library.

"Well, the whole thing started in 2006," says Susan. "I wanted to get the kids to read and said I would do anything. I would even sit in Jell-O. That got the ball rolling. So, at the end of the summer, I sat in Jell-O while some kids sprayed my hair purple."

Each summer since then, Ms. Susan has challenged the children at Whitestone: if they register for summer reading, and they read their quota of books, she will perform an outrageous stunt. And each year, her summer readers have more than met the challenge.

Ms. Susan has dressed like a chicken, been sprayed with silly string, kissed a frog, read to an alligator, kissed a rabbit, hugged a 105-pound python, gotten slimed, sat in a tub of cold pasta, and worn a banana suit (while sitting in a tub full of bananas)!

She's also been recognized by Astoria Bank and award-winning author James Patterson for her efforts.

So what does Ms. Susan have planned for her tenth anniversary challenge?

"If we get 300 children registered, and they read 4,000 books, at the end of the summer, I'll eat green eggs and ham on the front steps of the library. There are lots of recipes on the Internet. And we'll read the book, of course!" ■

Queens Library Has the Recipe for This Customer's Success

After a career as an executive pastry chef with 20 years of culinary experience, Victoria Love decided to create a blog of healthy recipes for children. She came to Queens Library for help.

"Before I signed up for free courses at Queens Library, I was completely computer illiterate," says Victoria.

"Since then, I've taken tons of business administration, computer basics, and social media classes at the Job & Business Academy, and I learned how to build my blog from scratch and upload all my photographs and recipes."

Victoria's blog is up and running at AlexandersMom.com, and she's already received a lot of subscriptions from people interested in her recipes.

"Now, I'm getting help from the Job & Business Academy with marketing my business," says Love. "If it weren't for Queens Library, I would be completely clueless, and unable to do any of this."

Thank you, Victoria—and good luck with your healthy business! ■

A Life at the Library: Queens Library's Connection with an Amazing Customer!

“I have always associated Fridays with libraries,” says Florence Odigie from Arverne. “When I was younger, my mother would take me and my siblings to the Arverne branch to check out books for the week. Once I was older, I still continued this tradition and would often visit the library after I got out of school on Friday afternoons.”

When Florence reached tenth grade, she asked if she could volunteer at the Arverne library. Even though the branch had moved to a cramped trailer due to Hurricane Sandy, she gladly offered her help, following in the footsteps of her sister, who had volunteered at Arverne years earlier.

Later that year, Florence accepted an offer to work as a library page. “To this day, I do not regret that decision,” she says. “What I gained from my two years of working at Arverne is not limited to valuable job experience; it also includes a precious support system and countless words of wisdom. I previously believed that I would have trouble balancing a job and schoolwork. However, the staff encouraged me and allowed me to work around my school schedule, and understood that my education was worth more than anything to me. I did come to realize that I have the ability to balance a lot of responsibilities successfully.”

“Florence’s pleasant demeanor could always brighten up any customer or staff member’s day,” says Nicole Gordon, Community Library Manager at Arverne. “Her infectious smile was always inviting, and the children were always drawn to her. No task was ever too big for her and she was always ready and willing to take on more responsibilities. What’s so amazing about her is that she would come in to work only twice a week, but was always able to accomplish so much. When she left for the day, the children’s room always looked like she had waved a magic wand.”

When Florence began to fulfil the promise of her education, she knew she could rely on her library family for help. Staff members—as well as other library customers!—helped her revise her college essay and advised her throughout her college application process. That help paid off in a fantastic way—Florence was accepted at Princeton, Cornell, Harvard, UPenn and numerous other colleges!

“Without the help of the library’s staff members and patrons, I highly doubt I could have achieved all that I have to this day,” says Florence. “Whenever I had to go to a college interview or visit a college, I always had the utmost support from the staff at Arverne. As I head off to Princeton University, I will always cherish the years I have spent at Arverne Library. The experience I’ve gained from when I was a child to now has definitely enriched my life.”

Thanks to Florence for her dedication—and everyone at Queens Library wishes her good luck this fall! ■

High School Equivalency Students Graduate

As one of Queens Library's most impactful programs, High School Equivalency has a strong track record of helping mature learners achieve a lifelong dream. The age range is diverse, as recent graduate Afrania Gonzalez proved. "I'm so proud of myself, I am 72 years old!" she said.

The most recent graduation ceremony was held at Flushing Library on May 10, and marked the graduation of more than 50 students. "They deal with math, English, you name it, and they are really succeeding," said Dennis M. Walcott, President & CEO of Queens Library.

The graduates embraced the spirit of the day by donning the traditional cap and gown, and collected their certificates as Pomp and Circumstance played. Rep. Grace Meng brought congratulations and inspiration all the way from the U.S. Congress. Nick Buron, Chief Librarian and Senior Vice President of Queens Library, acted as Master of Ceremonies, and the keynote speech was delivered by Dr. Felix Matos Rodriguez, President of Queens College. Five student speakers also discussed their experiences and hopes for the future: Faye Pinto, Amna Khan, Faruk Hussein, Hema Rampersad, and Yuli Guzman.

Congratulations, graduates: we're so proud, and wish you the best of luck with your future goals.

Prospective students can find out more about signing up for TASC preparation at the following link: queenslibrary.org/services/adult-literacy. TASC testing centers are available at the Central Adult Learning Center in Jamaica, Flushing Adult Learning Center, Jeanne Elmezzi Adult Learning Center in Long Island City, and Peninsula Adult Learning Center in Far Rockaway. ■

Connect with Your Police and Your Community During National Night Out!

Queens Library takes great honor in participating in the annual National Night Out Against Crime, which takes place this year on Tuesday, August 2.

National Night Out Against Crime is an annual community-building event that promotes police-community partnerships and celebrates making our neighborhoods safer, better places to live.

You're encouraged to join your police precinct and community leaders at parks and playgrounds in your neighborhoods for free food, music, activities for kids, and much more!

Attendees will also learn about community services like crime prevention, domestic violence prevention, and child, bike, and transit safety, and connect with their police officers, local businesses, and other mainstays of their neighborhoods.

Queens Borough President Melinda Katz, and many members of the City Council were among the elected officials who greeted hundreds of people in neighborhoods across Queens during last year's festivities.

Queens Library is just one of the community organizations participating in National Night Out. Visit Queens Library's table to sign up for library cards and learn more about the numerous services, events, and programs at the library.

To find out more about National Night Out activities happening near you, visit their website and natw.org. ■

Celebrating 50 Years of Central

This April marked 50 years since the Central Library opened its doors at Merrick Boulevard, Jamaica. To commemorate this significant occasion, library staff and customers attended a ceremony with speeches by NY Senator Leroy Comrie, New York State Assembly Member Alicia Hyndman, New York City Council Member I. Daneek Miller, Borough President Melinda Katz, Public Advocate Letitia James, and Queens Library President and CEO Dennis Walcott.

Members of the public attended a range of special activities, including free cartoon portraits, a performance by Queens Poet Laureate Maria Lisella and spoken word artist Shayshahn “Phearnone” MacPherson, and an R&B concert by singer Alexis Hightower.

The celebrations also featured 50 Years of Technology, a presentation by Denny Daniel, the curator of The Museum of Interesting Things, and The Hits of '66, a step back in time to hear the music teens listened to half a century ago. ■

Our Kids Showed Their Skills at Queens Library's Second Annual Spelling Bee!

After a great inaugural competition last year, we had even more kids join us for Queens Library's Second Annual Spelling Bee!

On April 16 at Central Library, 47 finalists competed for the championship as 100 friends and family members cheered them on. These contestants had already won spelling contests at their local libraries, so they represented the best of the best.

Our winners were Richard Delgado, a 4th grader from the Fresh Meadows Community Library, and Rishi Shah, a 5th grader from the Bellerose Community Library!

The winners received Google Chromebook laptop computers and every single participant was given their own copy of The Princeton Review's Word Smart guide. Magdalena Rahn, who also sponsored last year's Spelling Bee, provided all of this year's prizes and refreshments.

The Queens Library Spelling Bee gives our young people the opportunity to test their skills against each other, and connects families from all over Queens as they celebrate their kids' skills and dedication. Thank you again to Community Library Services Director Tatyana Magazinnik and our organizers, community library managers, contestants, and Magdalena Rahn for making this Bee buzz! ■

Giving Our Thanks to Our Adult Tutors!

We love to show our gratitude to our volunteers, especially during April's National Volunteer Month, and one of our standout events this year was our Adult Learner Program Volunteer Appreciation Breakfast.

Thirty-five volunteers joined us at Forest Hills Community Library and were recognized for their committed service by Queens Library President & CEO Dennis Walcott and Queens Library Director of Learning and Literacy Diosdado Gica.

Queens Library has 135 active ALP volunteer tutors, dedicated adults who have a deep desire to help others and share their love for learning. Our volunteers generously share their professional expertise and help our customers improve their literacy and English-speaking skills and pursue their educational goals.

Many of these volunteers have been donating their time on a regular basis for several years. Some of our long-term tutors have served with the ALP program for nearly 20 years!

Congratulations and thank you to our ALP volunteers! ■

Happy National Seniors Day!

On August 21, we celebrate National Senior Citizens Day. At Queens Library, though, every day is Senior Citizens Day—and we've got the programs to prove it.

Among our flagship programs are computer training, remote access services, the Adult Learner Program, and health and wellness services.

Older adults can take computer classes tailored to varying goals and experience levels, including introductory classes on computers, the Internet, Microsoft programs, and Google. Facebook and other social media are also covered, allowing participants to stay in touch with friends and family.

Also popular is the Mail-A-Book program, which offers homebound individuals free delivery of library materials right to their door. Mail-A-Book participants can join in on teleconferenced lectures, classes, and discussions led by experienced facilitators.

The Adult Learner Program offers lifelong learning opportunities, including English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL), literacy groups, and other workshops and classes, many of which are run at Adult Learning Centers. Queens Library also provides access to large-print reading materials, digital and traditional audiobooks, and job search workshops specifically designed for Older Adults.

For health-conscious seniors, Queens Library offers the Stay Well Exercise Program (Central and East Elmhurst), HealthLink and ConnectCare health and wellness programs, and the Consumer Health Resources Center. From Zumba Gold to lectures on herbal and prescription medications, seniors can learn valuable health and wellness information, receive routine health screenings and stay fit to ensure positive wellbeing. ■

Sitting Down With Daymond John

Queens Library hosted one of its most exciting events yet—a discussion with entrepreneurial legend and author Daymond John. Though the multi-millionaire is best known for being an investor on the popular TV show Shark Tank and for founding his own clothing company, FUBU, Daymond has never forgotten his Queens roots. At York College on April 28, he spoke to Queens Library Hip-Hop Coordinator Ralph McDaniels about growing up in Hollis, his latest book, The Power of Broke, and his work as a Global Ambassador of Entrepreneurship for President Barack Obama.

Daymond got the party started as soon as he entered York College, arriving with an entourage of colleagues and friends and a boombox announcing his presence. As he approached the stage, a video montage of his television appearances—including interviews from the early days of FUBU—showed just how hard he’s worked to be where he is today.

Free ticket registrations had been completely booked, and as conversation started flowing, it was easy to see why. When Daymond asked how many audience members were from Queens, nearly everybody raised their hands. As he talked about his experiences, he offered strong advice for entrepreneurs and small business owners. He dismissed the common idea that it’s not what you know, but who you know. “The biggest thing to do is to know your customer,” he said. “We’ve been trained to think we can’t get it because we don’t have it.”

After answering questions in the open Q&A session, Daymond took to the lobby area to autograph copies of The Power of Broke. He didn’t leave until every book was signed. If you missed the event, watch the video or hear the podcast on our website.

This event was made possible through the generous support of York College Student Development. ■
